

What Are You Proving?

Week 1 – General AI Fluency

Proof Statement

My primary claim is that I can turn front-end internship tasks into clear, organized, and well-documented deliverables using a practical AI-assisted workflow. The specific person I want to convince is a mentor, reviewer, or startup team lead who needs someone dependable for junior front-end tasks and technical documentation. I want that person to look at my work, trust that I can follow instructions carefully, structure tasks week by week, and confidently assign me real front-end implementation and documentation responsibilities.

Why This Matters

This statement matters because a CV or LinkedIn profile can list my skills, but it cannot fully prove that I can consistently turn instructions into structured, high-quality front-end work with clear documentation and reliable execution.
